JOURNAL OF AEROSOL SCIENCE

In association with the Gesellschaft für Aerosolforschung (GAeF)
Association for Aerosol Research

Founding Editor Prof. C. N. DAVIES (from 1970 to 1984)

Aims and Scope

The Journal of Aerosol Science is a long-established international publication which sets out to encourage and foster all aspects of basic and applied aerosol research by publishing high-quality scientific papers in that very multidisciplinary field. The submission of original papers is encouraged, describing recent theoretical and experimental research relating to:

—the basic physical, chemical and biological properties of particles in aerosol systems of all types
—their measurement
—their formation, transport, deposition and effects
—their industrial, medical and environmental applications.

The Journal is therefore relevant to the interests of many scientists working in the areas of physics, chemistry, engineering, applied mathematics, aerobiology, medicine, industrial and environmental hygiene, materials processing, and in many others. Occasional research and tutorial reviews are published which deal with specific aspects of aerosol science or establish links between various relevant disciplines.
